Art Unit: 2671

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lawless et al. (5,371,514) in view of Kim et al. (5,355,443).

As per claim 1, Lawless teaches the claimed "display system" comprising:

"a memory" (Lawless, column 4, lines 22-53); and

"an attribute system" (Lawless, column 8, lines 35-68).

It is noted that Lawless does not explicitly teach the "framed buffer attribute data" as claimed. However, Lawless' selection of different portions of frame buffer suggests the arrangement of storage capacity in the buffer (see also Kim, column 18, lines 24-46). Thus, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made, in view of the teaching of Kim, to configure Lawless' system as claimed because the arrangement of different portions of the frame defines "frame buffer attribute" as claimed.

Claim 2 adds into claim 1 the store of graphics data and frame attribute data in separate physical memories which Kim teaches in figure 8 and Lawless suggests in figures 3 and 8.

Due to the similarity of claims 3-6, 7-8, and 9-10 to claims 1-2, they are rejected under a similar reason.

Art Unit: 2671

Accordingly, the claimed invention as represented in the claims does not represent a patentable distinction over the art of record.
